

BRENNAN'S BRIDGE BILL.

PASSED IN THE ASSEMBLY AGAINST TAMMANY'S PROTEST.

It Provides for the Appointment by the Governor of a Commission to Have Charge of the Erection of a Bridge Over the East River. Donnelly's Anti-Monopoly Bill Passed in the Senate.

ALBANY, March 16.—Assemblyman E. C. Brennan's bill, providing for the appointment by the Governor of a commission of six citizens of the city of New York, which shall have charge of the erection of a new bridge over the East River from the vicinity of Fulton Ferry to the borough of Manhattan, passed the Assembly today by a vote of 84 to 50. The bill met with strenuous opposition. No sooner had it been taken up as a special order than it was read by a dozen Tammany braves on their feet crying for the striking out of the pending clause.

Messrs. Roche and Sanders of New York offered amendments, the one to provide for the naming of the commission by the Mayor of New York; the other to require the bridge to be located at some other point than in the vicinity of Fulton Ferry.

Messrs. Trickett, Sanders, Collins, Phillips, Roche, J. E. Smith, and Robinson of New York attacked the bill as proposing a gross violation of home rule as guaranteed in the New York charter, which gave the city authority the power to build its own bridges. They asserted that the provision of the bill was not to furnish the city of New York another bridge, but rather to give a few of Mr. Brennan's friends false commissions and to allow the owners of the other remaining Union East River bridge charters to sell their franchise for another twenty years.

Mr. Brennan defended the bill on the ground that the Tammany administration in New York city did not intend to build any more bridges connecting the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan. This many Democratic capitalists were interested in the railroads now crossing the Brooklyn Bridge to extend Tammany to construct another bridge. He said that the owners of the Union franchise were opposed to his bridge bill, and that it was his duty to abandon it.

Mr. Palmer moved the debate for the opposition, and Mr. Aids, the Republican leader, urged its passage, moving a vote of the House, which carried by a vote of 84 to 50. The bill was then taken up for a vote of 84 to 50. The bill was then taken up for a vote of 84 to 50.

By a vote of 27 to 22, the Senate today passed Senator Brockwell's bill, which gave the City Court of New York authority to issue writs of attachment against property of non-residents of New York county. This bill, which was introduced last week by the Senate, a similar bill was introduced in the Assembly, and which was introduced by Assemblyman Wagner, was ordered to a third reading in the Senate today.

When Assemblyman Mager's bill, which was referred to the Committee on Miscellaneous Corporations without comment, Senator Coughlin's similar bill is also in that committee. Senator Thompson's bill, which was introduced in the Senate today, is also in that committee.

The negative vote was cast by Senators Thompson and Robinson. The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Mager, and which was introduced by Assemblyman Mager, and which was introduced by Assemblyman Mager.

BEEF INQUIRY IN OMAHA.

BOARD SEES A HAM-CURING PROCESS BUT NO EMBALMED BEEF.

Inspection of the Packing House Plants—Several Sixteenth Infantry Officers Testify That the Canned Beef Was Bad—Soldiers Affected by Their Sickness to It.

OMAHA, Neb., March 16.—The investigation of the Army Board into the condition of the beef issued to the army from the Omaha packing houses was wholly devoid of the sensational features promised, and resolved itself into such a tame affair that the board concluded its work during the afternoon and left to-night for Kansas City. The feature of the session here was expected to be the testimony of Dr. Christian of Philadelphia, who, it was said, had made affidavits that last summer he witnessed the treatment of army beef with chemicals in the Omaha packing houses.

If this witness was summoned, the fact was not made known officially. Certainly he did not appear, and the bulk of the testimony was from soldiers who had been to Cuba and who testified that the beef issued was bad.

The board went through the packing house plants and found everything in excellent condition. If they were chemically prepared, meat last summer for consumption, the packers had effectively made away with all employees and apparatus connected in the business, for nothing of the kind was in evidence.

It was at Swift's that Dr. Christian located the chemical plant. Thomas Adams, foreman of the department, was called and testified that the operation of the plant was as follows: The meat was cut in curing, hams, and was not used on beef at any time. The inspection was satisfactory, and water, which was supposed to be used to cure the hams more quickly. The man who shows the visitors through the house was next called and testified that he had shown Dr. Christian through on his visit here, and that the operation witnessed by the board was the same as that witnessed by the doctor.

Capt. S. W. Dunning of the Sixteenth Infantry was the first witness called. He testified that on the transport from Tampa to Santiago, canned beef was issued as part of the ration. He said that the meat was not like the beef. After arrival at Santiago the meat was found to be bad. They could not eat it, and it did not look like it. They said the meat was spoiled, as soon as the cans were opened. When the contents of the cans were not eaten at once it spoiled.

Capt. W. H. Rice, Acting Inspector-General of the Department of the Missouri, said the canned beef used on the voyage to Cuba was a new ration to him. The men said the beef was bad. They had no reason to believe that it was not good, and it was not good. He had no reason to believe that it was not good, and it was not good.

First Lieut. James G. Smith, of the Sixteenth Infantry, testified that the men complained that they could not eat the beef. They said the meat was spoiled, as soon as the cans were opened. When the contents of the cans were not eaten at once it spoiled.

Fine Music and a Large Audience at the Second of the Season.

The Musical Art Society's second concert of the season, given under Frank Dumrosch's direction at Carnegie Hall last night, was every respect an enjoyable entertainment.

There was fine music, interpreted by a chorus of great excellence, and a large and appreciative audience to listen to it.
